HOW TO SAFELY USE YOUR CABLE SERVICE The cable CALNEVA has installed in your home is approved by the FCC as being safe and reliable for carrying cable and/or broadband signal. During severe electrical storms, unplug your television set, cable converter, cable modem, wireless CPE unit, and computer to avoid potential damage. Your cable company and your television/computer manufacturers are not responsible for damage that may occur due to acts of nature. Your cable converter, cable modem, and power supply for your wireless CPE unit operate on 110 volts so take all the precautions, as you would for any small electrical appliance. Check power cords for damage or normal wear and tear, and provide adequate space to allow for air circulation. For your own safety, do not attempt to open or otherwise tamper with your cable converter, cable modem, and/or wireless CPE unit. If you or someone other than CALNEVA installs the inside wiring in your home, ensure that it complies with applicable governmental regulations (such as FCC signal leakage rules) and does not interfere with the normal operation of other communications systems and devices such as radios/frequencies used by police and fire departments.

EQUIPMENT COMPATABILITY Older television sets cannot receive the number of channels offered through cable, so CALNEVA rents electronic channel-selection devices called "converters". A converter is simply a tuner that converts the cable channel selected by the subscriber to a lower numbered channel such as Ch. 2, 3, or 4. Programs may then be selected by tuning the converter to the desired channel. You may choose to connect your television set and/or DVD/VCR directly to the cable outlet, rather than using a converter. Doing so will enable you to tune all subscribed, non-scrambled channels directly.

Addressable Converter: An addressable converter unscrambles and enables you to receive premium channels which have been scrambled to prevent unauthorized reception. If you subscribe to a scrambled service, you will need an addressable converter and can obtain one from CALNEVA for a monthly rental fee.

Remote Controls: When using an addressable converter, you may not be able to use the remote control furnished with your television or DVD/VCR to access programming through the converter unless the remote control is a "universal" remote control. If your television or DVD/VCR remote control is not compatible with your converter, you may rent a remote control from CALNEVA, or you may purchase a universal remote control from a consumer electronics retailer.

Cable Modems: To utilize CALNEVA's high speed broadband internet service, a subscriber will need an active cable outlet, a broadband cable modem, and a computer ethernet port. It is the subscriber's responsibility to ensure the subscriber's computer is equipped with the proper ethernet port.
